Re: Video Conferencing with the 410th Court for non-trial hearings.

Dear Counsel:

The 410th Court allows counsel to appear before the court on any non-trial matter by video conferencing. Counsel should provide the Court with reasonable advance notice of their desire to utilize this technology.

The Court has used this technology with counsel and witnesses from around the state and country and it has proven extremely reliable.

For counsel who do not have video conferencing capability in-house, there are several office supply franchises or businesses that provide video conferencing, (e.g., Kinko's) for an hourly fee.

Sincerely,

Meredith Dunaway
