

Montgomery County, Texas Election News

May 2006

Carol Gaultney

For the very first time, Montgomery County voters will be able to go to their county polling location on the May 13 election day and vote one ballot for any of the contracted elections for which they are eligible to cast a vote. These include the Montgomery County Hospital District, cities, schools, MUDs, ESDs, and Improvement Districts. County voting precincts will be holding anywhere from one to eight different elections at each of our 85 locations. For a list of the 21 political entities we have contracted with to conduct their election, please see page two of this Newsletter. Election day sites and the elections being held at each location can be found by a link on our website.

Any voter may choose to take advantage of early voting at any one of the county six early voting locations. Dates, times and locations are listed on page three of this Newsletter. Sample ballots can be found on our website.

The State Legislature mandated all political entities in Texas to use accessible voting equipment beginning this year. Voting system vendors have been overextended with January 1, 2006 federal deadlines requiring every county in the country to implement accessible systems, and vendors were not able to supply Texas cities and schools with the new equipment and programming. The only way we could help all Montgomery County political subdivisions comply with the new laws was for us to conduct a countywide joint election.

MONTGOMERY COUNTY JOINT ELECTION

7:00 am to 7:00 pm

The “one-stop voting” is available to voters because of the cooperation of the Montgomery County Hospital District, cities, schools, MUDs, and other special districts and their willingness to use county polling locations. The versatility of our new equipment and the long hours and dedication of Montgomery County’s election staff and the county technology department also play a vital role in this undertaking.

Several entities in the county are conducting their own elections and those are listed on page two. You may find the early voting and election day polling sites for these elections on our website also.

Every registered voter in Montgomery County is eligible for at least one May 13 election – please vote!
